Paul, the BLM does not have a plan or notice on file for the Calliham Mine. I think it was permitted by UDOGM before our regulations were in place. Also, from what I recall, there is only a small portion on BLM. I visited the site years ago with Tony. It seems that only a portion of one of the old waste rock piles may have been on BLM. Since the BLM lands involved are minor and because UDOGM is holding bond and approved permit, we will defer to your judgment for site release. Sorry for the delay. I was on leave for a week then tied up with planning issues. Thanks for keeping us informed.

I thought the Calliham Mine was only on fee land, but it looks like part of it is on BLM. I've been out there twice in the last two months looking at the vegetation. The vegetation meets release criteria, so I'm planning to draft documents for our director to sign so the site can be released.

I apologize for not informing you of these visits, but, like I said, I didn't realize it was BLM land.

Are you familiar with the site, and have you seen it recently? Do you have any concerns with us releasing it?
